Dear Allen:

STATINTL

██████████ presented your letter to me recently, and we had a long talk. He impressed me as a first class man who should prove valuable if the right spot can be found.

STATINTL

There is really nothing in this firm or in our company that would be appropriate. My immediate suggestions to him were that he ask you for introductions to Frank Pace and Jack McCloy, who seem to me to have the sort of background that would enable them to evaluate ██████████, and also the sort of organization that might find him useful. Frank Pace, on whose Board I sit, told me this morning that he had already heard from you and would see ██████████.

STATINTL

I have arranged for ██████████ to go to Detroit to talk with John Bugas, who, as you probably know, is Group Vice President of Ford, in charge of all overseas business. John is on my Board, and expressed sufficient interest over the phone to justify my urging ██████████ to take the trip.

STATINTL

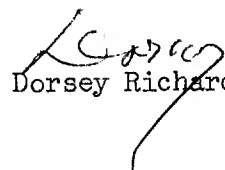

If there are further ways in which I can be helpful, I shall do so, as I am really impressed by ██████████.

STATINTL

One day soon I hope you and I can find an opportunity to pursue the idea which you mentioned to me in Washington. I have given it a good deal of thought, and believe that I might be of some use in regard to it.

With all best of the Season to you and Clover, in which Eleanor joins me, I am,

Sincerely yours,

Dorsey Richardson
